Sharma in connection with his pension.

The court further said if they fail to deposit the money, the principal registrar may take action against them to get the amount. In the petition, Sharma said that the department had not solved his pension-related problems. In 2013, the administration regularised the services of Sharma who was working as a contractual teacher and retired as a permanent teacher. The education department did not add his services that he had provided before 2013. That affected his pension, so he filed a petition.

The court had asked the government to add his previous services to the ones he had provided before 2013.

The school education department, however, did not take any action for two years. Therefore, Sharma filed a petition in the court.
